

I am disturbed by the privacy implications of a requirement for GPS or "Automatic Location Identity" for VoIP phones or cell phones. This is also an added and unnecessary expense. If not a requirement, there are many who would want it as an option. Like motorcycle helmets, "let the rider decide".